After registration deadline

Heavy clay ceramists together again at ceramitec

October 12, 2023

- Following the closing date for registrations, the first round of planning has begun
- All major heavy ceramists will be there in 2024
- Numerous joint stands have been registered

Following the official registration deadline in mid-September, the first round of planning for ceramitec has now begun. The leading international trade fair for the ceramics industry is already expected to attract a higher turnout than at the previous event. However, interested companies still have the opportunity to register. The next ceramitec will be held from April 9-12, 2024, at the exhibition grounds in Munich.

Heavy clay ceramists together again

Re-registrations from the heavy clay ceramics sector – which was still somewhat weaker in 2022 – are particularly impressive, with renowned companies such as Tecnofiliere, Bongioanni, Händle, Refratechnik, Rieter, Equipceramic, VHV, Ceramica do Liz and Talleres Felipe Verdes.

Numerous companies in other sectors will also be back in Munich next year. In addition to a reinvigorated participation from China, industry giants such as Kobayashi Industry Co. Ltd, Röders GmbH or D3-AM have registered.

Strong participation in joint stands

As usual, the joint stands are once again strong. France and China, for example, have planned a national participation. In addition, there will be a joint stand for young innovative companies from Germany with funding from the Federal
