Thermo Fisher Scientific India Pvt. Ltd., Thermolab Scientific Equipments and Titan Biotech to name a few.

Kunihiko Koriyama, Dy. General Manager Marketing & Sales at the exhibitor Shimadzu Analytical (India), is looking forward to the show: “analytica Anacon India and India Lab Expo have always been a very reliable platform for Analytical Instrument manufacturers and suppliers to showcase their latest technologies. We consider the show as an opportunity to present the emerging trends to a vast audience of the industry. The trade shows not only allow us to get in contact with visitors from the segment of Pharma but also Chemicals, Biotechnology, Biopharma and Food safety.”

Networking and accompanying programs

Alongside the event, the analytica Anacon India conference 2017 will focus on regulatory aspects for pharmaceutical laboratories, bioanalysis and biopharmaceuticals, food safety and clinical diagnosis. The conference will therefore throw light on Audits and Regulatory Affairs, Data Integrity, Extractable and Leachable, Emerging Technologies for Pharmaceutical Laboratories.

After the success of first year, analytica Anacon will be implementing Live Labs for ‘Food & Pharma Analysis’ in 2017. This concept was first introduced at analytica 2012 in Munich which also witnessed great success.

A workshop will be organized on ‘Practice-orientated seminar for laboratory users—Introduction to the laboratory’ and addressed by Mr. Christian Lipok, Faculty of Chemistry, University Duisburg-Essen. The workshop will be a blend of presentations and a practical section for visitors to offer an overview of important methods of working in a laboratory.

This year will also witness the third edition of the Buyer-Seller Forum which generated huge interest and reported strong participation in the previous year
